Two Join Foundation Board

Jean Cronin of Warrensburg and Thomas J. Ross, CPA, of Queensbury have joined the Hudson Headwaters Health Foundation Board of Directors.

Cronin and her husband James own and operate Cronin's Golf Resort in Warrensburg, where Jean oversees tournaments, social functions and benefit events. She is one of three Warrensburg representatives on the Hudson Headwaters Health Network Board. The Cronins have two sons, Jeremy, a third-year law student, and Jamsie, a fourth grader at Warrensburg Central.

Ross is president and CEO of Loftus Ross LLP, a 14-person CPA firm located in Queensbury. An area resident for nearly 30 years, Ross is the sole owner of the firm. Ross currently chairs the Adirondack Community College Foundation Capital Campaign, and is a member of the Glens Falls Hospital Foundation, where he formerly served as president.

Ross has also served as the chairman of the Adirondack Regional Chambers of Commerce, president of United Cerebral Palsy of the Tri-Counties, and president of the Adirondack Community College Foundation. He is a past recipient of the J. Walter Juckett Community Service Award.

Ross and his wife, Michele, have one son.
